$10 includes a copy of issue #7

La Sala Rossa, 4848 St. Laurent

October 29 2008 - Smut: The final frontier. A portal to virtual realities, a playground for fantastic characters, a narrative told in impossible destinies. This issue, Lickety Split asks you to slip out of that mortal husk and into something more... Existential? Divine? Synthetic? Beastly? Vegetal?? At the border of human and other, which basic sexual elements turn you into a ticking A-bomb?

The Beyond Human Issue includes work by Matt Forsythe, Sherwin Tjia, Farah Kahn, Nick Cabelli, Astria Suparak, Steven Lawrence, Omar Rahman, Darell Smith, Mark Harris, Kim Bastien & Lauren Kingsley, Eric Hanson, Jonathan Stewart, Noam, Robby Reis, Max D., and more!

Shed your mortal coil and don a "Beyond Human" mask for the sluttiest and strangest not-exactly-human party in Montreal! Three lovely rock trios will grace the stage including Parlovr, one of the buzziest bands in town these days as well as Coulees, from Fixture Records, and Nightwood, a lady-fronted band which includes Lickety Split's editor, Amber Goodwyn.

What they're saying about Lickety Split smut zine:

"Since appearing in 2004, Lickety Split has been dedicated to tenting your pants, wetting your undies and pressing a nerve." - Sacha Jackson, The Montreal Mirror

"It seems that every marginalized group wants its own version of pornography — punks, gays, lesbians, straight indie-rock chicks. But for those who want all of the above, there's Lickety Split." - Amber Drea, Venus Zine

About Lickety Split smut zine:

Lickety Split is a pansexual smut zine dedicated to encouraging sex-positive expression and thought. The zine promotes collaborative art making and encourages diverse contributions to climb into bed with one another, because one sexual expression just does not satisfy.
